

Greater Yellow-headed Vulture

The Greater Yellow-headed Vulture is a New World species with a keen sense of smell. They are closely related to Lesser Yellow-headed Vultures, but can be told apart by their darker body plumage and leg color, larger size, and less colorful, mostly yellow, face.