

White-rumped Vulture

The White-rumped Vulture is a Critically Endangered Old World species that lives across parts of Asia. The body is mostly black, with a white back and rump. There is also a white ruff of feathers around the neck. The head is dark with a pink tinge and the beak is a silvery color.

